

Leave a light on

You may think I've gone
just because you don't see me and you may feel I've left you but then what else could you feel?

Stars don't always shine their light
yet you know that they are just out of sight.
To never know is like your living in the dark
Baby leave a light on, so I know which way home.

Was that me behind you?
Doubt: a weight you can't put down.
Nor is it something you can carry a shadow hand knocking at your door.

Out the corner of your eye
you're checking every face that's walking by.
To never know is like your living in the dark
Baby leave a light on, so I know which way home.

Every day recurring dreams
that you might never wanna wake
The light of hope it gives a dawn to every night you might find

And now you are left with one thing you try but cannot give away so is there room for goodbye that I might never here you say?

Baby leave a light on, so I know which way home.
